

Hoi An's Old World Charm

As I step into the green heaven of the lush and spacious grounds of Hoi An Historic Hotel I feel I have left behind all my worries and exhaustion. Situated ideally in the immediate vicinity of Hoi An Ancient Town, this four-star hotel brings me fresh air. I relax perfectly thanks to its dedicated and professional staff, cosy atmosphere and convenient services.

Based on French buildings and renovated in 2010, the hotel offers 150 spacious, agreeably furnished rooms and suites. Here the minimalist fad of recent years has been eschewed. All the rooms are equipped with air-conditioning, LCD TV, tub and shower, and in-room safety box.

For me, this is an ideal place from which to enjoy this UNESCO town while having a whole comfortable hotel to relax and pamper myself. The four-star hotel also offers use of a vast, outdoor pool with poolside recliners as well as a Jacuzzi, tennis courts, souvenir shop, art gallery, beauty salon and tour desk.

My dining options are diverse. The Oaks Terrace serves western cuisine and Indochine Corner serves Vietnamese and Asian cuisines, while the Western Bar serves drinks and Italian cuisine by the poolside.

The Oaks Terrace brings contemporary European brasserie style to Hoi An. With its classical design, the all day dining restaurant spreads across the oak garden creating an inviting and informal venue. There is also a specially designed international a la carte menu for lunch and dinner.

Indochine Corner is decorated with traditional Asian interiors in an open-air tropical garden with additional indoor seating. It's the ideal place to enjoy traditional Vietnamese and other Asian cuisines as well as the breakfast buffet with its wide selection of dishes.

Western Bar is an alfresco style bar which offers a colourful panoramic view of the pool and garden and a wide selection of authentic Italian cuisine. It is the best venue in Hoi An to enjoy pastas, salads and pizzas straight from its wood fired oven.

The hotel also puts on barbecue parties and some of Hoi An's most renowned cuisine together with traditional folk dance performances. The hotel's daily cooking class is a great way to learn how to create authentic Vietnamese culinary masterpieces.

After a day walking around the ancient streets and swimming at the stunning beach of Cua Dai, enjoy some downtime at Zen Spa which weaves Vietnamese native remedies with contemporary spa concepts, providing patrons with relaxing and spiritually enriching treatments.

To cool down in the hot summer, it's also great to soak in the hotel's outdoor swimming pool.

Moreover, this is a perfect venue for business travelers who can take advantage of the hotel's superlative, state-of-the-art conference facilities with the Hoi An Ballroom capable of catering to 400 guests. Meanwhile, the two Hoi An VIP meeting rooms can provide services for up to 60.
